

Open and Distance Learning Centre, ANGRAU, Lam, Guntur – 522 034

Acharya N.G.Ranga Agricultural University being a pioneer University of the country in imparting Agricultural education is expanding its wings with the aim of reaching the unreached. Over the decades intensive efforts have been put forth by the Agricultural Scientists and Extension specialists in the state, still only less than 30 percent of agricultural technologies have reached the farmers. Considering the potential and the future of Open and Distance Learning, the Centre of Open and Distance Learning(ODLC) was established with the major aim being to transform ANGRAU from its formal educational system to a dual and convergent mode, by adopting appropriate policies and systems of ODL and ICT (Information & Communication Technology) so as to provide entrepreneurial skills for self-employment, continuing professional education and extension education to the rural people of the state.

Establishment of Open Distance Learning Centre under the Faculty of Agriculture, ANGRAU will be vested with the responsibility of offering Distance learning programme through certificate courses for the benefit of various segments of the farming community, entrepreneurs, Self-help groups and other learners who aspire for knowledge in Agricultural education and Self-employment.

Objectives

The objectives of ODLC include:

- To promote technical know-how and entrepreneurial skills for self-employment,
- To facilitate wider outreach of agricultural technologies,
- To offer Agricultural Education to special groups of rural people in general, and school dropouts, small and marginal farmers and women in particular,
- To provide innovative, open system of education by using distance learning and teaching methods supported and enabled by modern Information Communication Technology (ICT), and
- To facilitate exchange and sharing of Agricultural information, Knowledge and skills among the farming fraternity of the State.
